THE FDCPA BOOT CAMP

An Intensive Litigation Primer On Suing Debt Collectors Under The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act

A Great Legal Learning Experience

“Pete Barry's FDCPA Boot Camp is the quintessential training for anyone thinking of delving into this area of law. A useful and very enlightening two and a half days. The forms alone are worth ten times the price. Highly recommended.”

Simple. Concise. Complete. The FDCPA Boot Camp is an intensive legal training experience designed to help new and experienced lawyers hone their litigation skills in suing debt collectors. The Boot Camp is hundreds of critical topics, strategies, and tactics presented in a lively, systematic way to help launch your new FDCPA practice, or make your existing FDCPA practice shine. The boot camp is centered on two simple concepts: While not every collection account is destined to become an FDCPA claim; every FDCPA claim is destined to become a better FDCPA claim. That's what I like to call Barry's Law and its Corollary. These two principles are infused in my FDCPA practice and I hope to have the chance to show you why.

The Boot Camp experience looks at things from my consumer lawyering perspective since 1996, evaluating and litigating thousands of FDCPA cases. The materials and content are drawn from dozens of previous Boot Camps, consumer law classes, and CLEs I have taught. I use a combination of real-life video, audio, lecture and practical tips to help you dive into the deep end of FDCPA.

There is nothing like the FDCPA Boot Camp anywhere else in the world. I want your experience to be the best it can possibly be and I want you to enjoy your stay. This short brochure is intended to cover your basic questions about the Boot Camp, but I encourage you drop me an email if you have others that aren't covered here. I can be reached at (612) 379-8800 or at pbarry@lawpoint.com.

I am genuinely excited to spend two and a half days with you focused on making things right for consumers—by righting the wrongs of debt collectors.
